

HR Employee Performance Dashboard - Business Insights and Recommendations

Five Impactful Business Insights

1. Employee Attrition Remains a Major Concern: The organization has an attrition rate of 29.4%, meaning nearly one out of every three employees leaves the company. This indicates a significant retention challenge that can increase recruitment costs, training expenses, and productivity loss.
2. Employee Satisfaction Is Only Moderate: The average employee satisfaction score is 5.6 out of 10, suggesting that employees are neither highly satisfied nor highly engaged. This moderate satisfaction level may be contributing to the relatively high attrition rate.
3. HR Department Shows the Highest Performance Rating: Among all departments, the HR department achieved the highest average performance rating (3.1), indicating effective workforce management and strong departmental performance compared to other functions.
4. Marketing Team Has the Highest Average Experience: The Marketing department has the highest average experience level (7.6 years), demonstrating a stable and experienced workforce that can contribute valuable knowledge and expertise to the organization.
5. Salary Levels Are Relatively Consistent Across Departments: Average salaries across departments range between 72K and 74K, showing a balanced compensation structure with minimal pay disparities between departments.

Three Strategic Corporate Recommendations

1. Implement Employee Retention Programs: Conduct exit interviews, employee feedback surveys, and career development initiatives to identify the primary reasons employees leave and improve retention.
2. Improve Employee Engagement and Satisfaction: Focus on employee recognition programs, training opportunities, work-life balance initiatives, and transparent communication to improve overall engagement.
3. Leverage High-Performing Departments as Benchmarks: Study and replicate the best practices of high-performing departments such as HR and Marketing across other departments.